Detail of cartouche corner

"I'm fortunate in that I'm able to source this from a paper mill just a few miles from my studio. It's made from reeds from the Black River - our local water-source - and has a wonderful subtle colour and texture," she says.

The etchings themselves are produced with a sharp etching needle onto copper-plate; the more detailed the image, the longer it will take to produce - the tree images that Lyndi produces for Trowbridge, for instance, are particularly labour-intensive.
